Washington And Eisenhower Compared With Emancipator At Lincoln Dinner, Thursday

Approximately 200 Adams Countyans, gathered at Hotel Gettysburg Thursday night to observe the birthday of Abraham Lincoln, heard the martyred president compared with a new leader, President Dwight D. Eisenhower by one speaker, and with the first president of the nation, President George Washington, by another.

"The birthdays of two great Americans are celebrated this month," declared Lt. Gov. Lloyd H. Wood. "A study of their lives is a source of great spiritual inspiration. Each of them came from a separate environment in many respects, but their objectives were the same."

"The one possessed the abundant courage to outlast the foul conspirators of the Conway Cabal, and to lead his ragged and starved Continental army to the victory that established this Republic. The other, possessed of equal courage, withstood vicious criticism and staggering military defeats in order that the Union might be preserved, and that government by free men should not perish from this earth."

Had Parallel Ideals

"Some biographers assert that Washington differs from Lincoln in that his fame is associated with a movement accomplished and done. Consequently his greatness is fully recognized, but not much thought about, whereas the movement which Lincoln personifies is still vigorous and cogent, moving toward the fulfillment of its destiny."

"Lincoln is pictured as one of the few supreme statesmen of the centuries. He belongs to the great men of the world, by right of his immense power of hard work, his unflinching pursuit of what seemed to him to be right, and above all, by that childlike directness and simplicity of vision which none but the greatest carry beyond their earliest years."

"Whatever may have been the differences of action, the scene, the stage, between these two great

CHARLES E. COOK BANDSMAN FOR 50 YEARS HERE

Charles E. Cook, Gettysburg R. 2, Thursday night, at the regular rehearsal of the Blue and Gray Band, observed his 50th anniversary as a bandsman.

Now in his sixties, Mr. Cook started his career as member of the Gettysburg band when a youth of 16. The late S. A. Troxell, then leader of the band, brought a group of 16-year-old youngsters into the band to teach them to play various instruments and fill vacancies in the organization.

At that time the town band was Grand Army of the Republic Band and its duties included participation in the many activities of the GAR as well as taking part in other community events.

Started With Cymbals

Bandsman Cook recalls that he was given the job of playing the cymbals while learning to play the trombone for the organization. After he had mastered the trombone to the satisfaction of the leader he played that instrument for a number of years, then switched to the baritone horn.

The GAR band became the Citizens' Band and Mr. Cook continued as one of its most active members. In 1926 the Boys' Band was organized and the Citizens' Band went into virtual retirement, but when the Boys' Band and the Citizens' band joined to form the Blue and Gray in 1933 the "old timers," including Mr. Cook, were among the foremost in the establishment of the new unit.

Another period when the local band was inactive was from 1943 to

The auxiliary passed along two suggestions to organizations and individuals who wish to aid residents of the county home. Churches or church groups which hold services at the county home were asked to hold such services on both floors if the various buildings at the home. Many elderly residents who would be happy for the opportunity to attend church services find it difficult to negotiate the stairways to first floor level services and would find it much easier to attend second floor services if they were available, the auxiliary noted.

Individuals or groups who would like to provide a "treat" of ice cream for the residents of the county home can do so by sending a check for

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Tech. Sgt. Charles Edward Lint clutched the Presidential Air Medal in the nub that are all that remain of his fingers and said:

"I'm real pleased. I'm really happy about the whole thing."

One reason was that he could see the medal presented to him yesterday in Wadsworth General Hospital by Col. R. A. Bringham, manager of the veterans' facility.

Just 24 hours earlier, surgeons had removed bandages that had kept the 22-year-old Hollywood airman sightless for 14 months. Skin grafts had replaced his eyelids, nose and mouth burned away in a B29 crash on Okinawa Dec. 4, 1951.

U.S. PROPERTY IS CALLED IDEAL AS SCHOOL SITE

"A very attractive site for a school building" was the way Lester Buchart, vice president of the Buchart Engineering Corporation of York, architects for the proposed new elementary school building here, described the government land east of the high school building after an inspection of the ground Thursday afternoon with a group of school directors and Dr. L. C. Keefe, superintendent of schools.

The land Mr. Buchart referred to is that for which the Joint School District Planning Committee was authorized to negotiate by the joint board Monday evening.

Bills have been introduced in both houses of Congress giving the Gettysburg National Park authority to sell the upwards of 20 acres of government land for school purposes and use the funds obtained thereby to purchase land of more value to the National Park.

Says Site Is Ideal

Mr. Buchart said there is "plenty of space for an ideally situated grade school building" on the government plot. He said the building could be arranged in a U-shape with the three lower grades in one section and the three upper grades in the other, with separate play areas for each. He declared the land between the high school grounds and E. Confederate Ave. has some physical advantages that the Colt Park site the school district recently secured by condemnation does not possess.

THANKS SCHOOL CHILDREN FOR CLOTHING GIFTS

Adams County school children turned in 2,003 pounds of clothing valued at "between $3,000 and $4,000" during the December drive for the "Save The Children Federation," County Superintendent of Schools J. Floyd Slaybaugh announced today.

The amount and its value was contained in a letter sent to the superintendent by Mrs. Lois Gentry, administrative supervisor for the federation.

Mrs. Gentry said the clothing was of "excellent quality and superior to most of the clothing received by us." She added that the federation has over the years determined a value of $1 per pound for clothing turned in to it, but "this clothing is so excellent that we must give it a higher value, possibly $3,000 to $4,000."

She added, "We are gratified by the interest manifested by your students. Please express our gratitude to them."

The clothing was collected in the schools and then was taken by truck to Knoxville, Tenn., the warehouse of the Federation on December 21 by Ernest Rebert, Biglerville R. D. The bundles of clothing were not weighed until they reached their destination.

The clothing is sent to foreign countries to be used by needy children.

ASK ASSESSORS TO FINISH THEIR NEW DUTIES BY JUNE 1 DEADLINE

June 1, 1953, has been set by the county commissioners and Chief Assessor William G. Weaver as the date for completion of preparations for the new assessment program for the county.

In a letter to be sent to all assessors in the county, they are asked to complete all cards under the new assessment regulations by June 1 in order to save the county the cost of purchasing a new set of books for the 1954 assessment.

Because such a large part of the new assessment program has been completed, Weaver said it is possible, by a special effort on the part of all assessors, for the complete canvass under the new card setup to be completed by June

Speedup Is Economy Move

The "speedup" is sought "in order to save the cost of printing a set of assessment books for 1954 and entry of all assessments in the books which would amount to a dual assessment," Weaver said.

Originally a five-year period had been set aside for the work of filling out cards listing details concerning every property in the county.

During that period the regular method of assessment was to have been carried out, in which each assessor would enter the names of the taxables and place an assessment for each property in assessment books as has been done for years.

To Fix "Actual Values"

At the same time, the assessors were carrying out the work of filling out cards on each property to be entered into the master file for the new assessment program. Under the new program the real value of each property will be determined from the details available on the cards and each property will be listed at its "actual value." The commissioners then will set an assessment percentage and that will be applied to all real values. That figure will be the basis for assessments of all properties.

Weaver's letter states that many of the assessors have already completed a large amount of the work they need to do for the new program and that only a few have not yet turned in any cards under the new program.

In Connection With The New Assessment

In connection with the new assessment, Weaver also sent a letter to all assessors telling them that under the new law they must submit to the chief assessor's office monthly reports on building permits issued by them. The law permits the assessors to collect 15 cents extra on each building permit to reimburse them for making out the forms and mailing them.

Lack Two Assessors

Appointment of Lewis Blair as assessor in Union Twp. was announced by the commissioners.

They announced that at the present all districts with the exception of Freedom Twp. and Biglerville have assessors. They asked those two districts to present names for assessors by next Wednesday or the county will be forced by law to name outsiders as assessors for the districts. They expressed the hope that someone within the two districts will come forward to fill the posts.

FRESH STORMS ARE BATTERING 3 COUNTRIES

LONDON (AP)—A relentless tide thundered against hastily-plugged gaps in the sea walls of Britain, the Netherlands and Belgium today, threatening a new loss of life and property.

On both shores of the North Sea the battle to hold back the waves reached a new critical phase. The fight, against the greatest expected tides of the month, will continue until Thursday.

Britain, aided by the United States and eight continental countries, got a sandbag airlift underway. Millions of bags were loaded into planes and ships to strengthen the battered levees on England's East Coast.

British, Dutch and Belgian servicemen and volunteers fought at a new tempo to hold back the sea. As new weaknesses appeared in the dikes, fresh crews rushed up to bolster the defense.

More Than 2,000 Dead

Britain and the low countries counted more than 2,000 dead from the storms and floods that swept against their shores from Jan. 31 to Feb. 2. All three countries are better equipped now to prevent more loss of life.

Not only have coastal areas been evacuated in many places, but elaborate warning systems are in operation.

The wind dropped over the North Sea, but numbing cold was a new enemy for the workers on the dikes. A blizzard continued over much of Northern Europe.

Spring tides, pulled by the moon, will reach their peak Monday afternoon. If no new gales whip the waters, the three countries hope to get safely by this period.

By the end of next week, the giant February tides will have begun to recede.

Winning Sea Battle

The British are winning the sea battle thus far. The walls are standing up to the pounding in the danger areas of Kent, Essex, Norfolk, Suffolk, Yorkshire and Lincolnshire.

Ice and snow continued to snarl road and rail traffic in Northern England and Scotland.

Bitter weather gripped the continent. The French port of Le Havre had its third snowfall of the winter, the first time this has happened in 50 years. Snow fell as far as Marseille.

Drifts up to nine feet blocked passes of the Jura and Vosges Mountains on Eastern France. Mailmen made deliveries on skis there.

Heavy snowfalls gave Denmark its biggest transportation headache in years.

A snow storm sweeping down from the Baltic isolated several German coastal villages. High water was reported at several places along the coast. Some roads were flooded.

Sweden experienced a violent snowstorm with winds up to 60 miles an hour. Heavy ice stalled dozens of ships in the Baltic.

The report indicated that there were no more than 50 survivors at the most in the village, approximately 90 miles from Shahrud.

Evaders Of Draft Face Arrest Again

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Twin brothers who already have served prison terms for violating the selective service law face arrest on new charges.

Warrants for Paul S. and David B. Seaver, of Prospectville, Montgomery County, were issued yesterday by U. S. Commissioner Henry P. Carr. The brothers, 19, are charged with refusing to fill out selective service questionnaires.

They are members of the Religious Society of Friends. At the time of their first arrest, for refusing to register for the draft, they told U. S. District Judge Thomas J. Clary that as conscientious objectors they were willing to "do work of importance" but would refuse to go to Korea and work on the battlefield.

Weddings

Poist — Olinger

The wedding of Miss Mary Joyce Olinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Olinger, Hanover, and Richard John Poist, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Poist, 116 S. Orange St., New Oxford, took place at 8 p.m. Saturday in St. Vincent's Catholic Church, Hanover. The Rev. Joseph G. Gotwalt, rector, performed the double-ring ceremony. Justus Arthur, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, gave the bride in marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Justus Arthur, brother-in-law and sister of the bridegroom, attended the couple. Ushers were William Livelsberger and Gerald Breighner. A reception at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post home was attended by about 75 guests. Mrs. Poist was graduated from Delone Catholic High School with the class of 1952, and is employed by Lo-bell's Mail Order Department. Her husband is serving with the navy.

Bowers — Strickhouser

Miss Mary Lou Strickhouser, Littlestown R. 1, and Charles R. Bowers, 46 W. King St., Littlestown, were married Friday at 8:30 p.m. in St. Mary's Evangelical and Reformed Church, Silver Run, Md. The Rev. Ray E. P. Abbott, pastor, performed the double-ring ceremony.

Denies Charge

Both were immediately engulfed in a wave of reporters.

Sometimes Miss Ward talks. Sometimes Sala won't let her talk. Today he let her talk. She made the statement about Jelke beating her "scores of times."

One of Jelke's attorneys, Martin Benjamin, denied that Miss Ward had testified Jelke forced her into prostitution by repeated beatings. There has been no specific testimony about beating so far in the case, he said.

Jelke—pugny and pint-sized—denies he ever laid a finger on her," said Benjamin, adding: "She's twice his size."

Jelke's chief attorney, Sam Segal, has said he will not subpoena men listed as Miss Ward's paying lovers. Originally he thought he would. Why he changed his mind he did not say.

Called Censorship

Meanwhile the fact that the trial is closed was up for argument in State Supreme Court today.

Five New York City newspapers and two press associations have accused Valente of "an improper assumption of censorship powers."

The complainants seeking to have the curb lifted are the Journal-American, the Daily Mirror, the Daily News, the Post, the Herald-Tribune, International News Service and the United Press.

State Approval Needed

After visiting the government land, the schoolmen went to the Colt Park site briefly and Buchart renewed his endorsement of that ground also as "a very satisfactory site and added: "We have plans for a mighty fine building on paper for this land."

State approval is now being sought on preliminary plans for an 18- to 20-room grade school building at Colt Park. When that approval is given, detailed plans and specifications would be prepared and bids asked in an effort to have the building ready for use by September 1954—provided the whole Colt Park project is not abandoned.

Problems currently faced by the joint board in connection with the grade school buildings include:

Shall one or two elementary buildings be erected—with the only possible sites at present on the south side of town?

Shall work on the Colt Park project be delayed or dropped to await the time when the government land may become school property?

Can the district afford an uncertain delay on its grade school building plans while enrollments mount and present facilities continue inadequate?

Shall the board give up any hope of a school site on the north side of town? Last year when the board decided on building two grade school buildings, one was to be on the south and one on the north side of the borough.

Answers to some of these questions depend how rapidly the bills introduced at Washington by Senator Edward Martin and Congressman S. Walter Stauffer reach final passage. With Senators Martin and Duff promising support, early passage has been held likely, but until the school district holds the deed for the land many steps in planning have to be delayed.

Woman Dies On Way To Church

SUNBURY, Pa. (AP)—The body of a 73-year-old widow was found along the banks of the Susquehanna River near here last night, less than a mile from the church she was going to when she disappeared Tuesday.

Sunbury police said Mrs. Julia Labiak apparently died of a heart attack. They said there were no signs of foul play.

Mrs. Anna Gavason, a daughter with whom Mrs. Labiak lived in Northumberland, said her mother left home at 7 a.m. Tuesday to attend church.

after a mixed opening. Out in front of the rise were the railroad steels, motors and a few others in a milder manner. The gains extended into the major fractions while losses were usually small.

GIRL ASSERTS JELKE BEAT HER SEVERAL TIMES

NEW YORK (AP)—Red-haired Pat Ward said today that she beat her Minot (Mickey) Jelke several times because "I was very much in love with him."

Jelke, 23, is on trial charged with forcing Miss Ward and two other young women into prostitution and then living off Miss Ward's profitable earnings.

General Sessions Judge Francis L. Valente has barred the press and public from hearing court-room testimony. So newsmen catch what drama lawyers and witnesses will spill out of the courtroom into the corridors.

Today's scene was the same as nearly each day in the week-old trial: Miss Ward, 19, entered wearing a demure smile and simple costume with pater pan collar. She was accompanied, as nearly always, by her attorney, a former magistrate named J. Roland Sala who likes to be called "Judge" and is intensely interested in the theater and acting.

Both were immediately engulfed in a wave of reporters.

Trip To Halifax Nightmare Of Wormy Food, Bad Water, Filth And Vermin On Ship

By Captain Samuel White
(An autobiography of an Adams County man in the campaign of 1814 against the British and Indians in Canada.)

(Captain White tells of the cruelties and indignities suffered by American soldiers at the hands of the British, and of the escape of several Americans from the ship bound for Halifax.)

Thirteenth Installment

There still remained on board the vessel, seventeen of our number, so that those who made their escape were not missed until the following morning at nine o'clock then the captain came aboard and had the roll called. We were told to prepare to leave the cabin in an hour and that we should in the future take up our quarters in the hold when we urged that it was rather a hard case to punish us for the offenses of others, our captain told us he was very well aware that they could not have got away without our assistance. We then stated that it seemed rather like punishing us for not having availed ourselves of the opportunity presented us, as the boat was sufficiently large to hold us all—the only reply he condescended to make us, was that he would let us know that we had our eldest "brudder" aboard, and that he would take care of us—he was a Scotchman by the name of Snowden.

When the hour given us for preparation had expired, we were marched into the hold, where we were kept for twenty-one days, three days and nights of which we had nothing to eat, and when at length they did furnish us with provision they were of such quality as an American dog would not eat, without the necessary stimulus of starvation—they consisted of old sea bread and biscuit, which for anything I know was twenty years old, at all events it was so completely eaten up by the worms, all that the worms could penetrate, the outside part being only left, and was so hard that it would require a hammer to break it.

Not Fit For Dogs

Bad as it was we were not furnished with more than one fourth of a common soldier's allowance. This shovelled up into a sack and with a bone of beef thrown into the hold as if to so many dogs. We cut the meat and broke the bread into small pieces, and boiled all together, making a kind of soup called lobsouse; while it was in preparation, we had made each of us a spoon, and this done, it was poured out upon a large wooden dish, and standing around, we played away, until the hollow rattle of our spoons upon the dish reminded us that it was empty. We fared twice a day in this sumptuous manner. The water too, which they gave us to drink was most dreadful stuff, no human being could drink it without holding his nose the stench was so great. In the evening our waiter had the good fortune to procure us a bucket of water, which was divided amongst us as though it was a luxury, and indeed to our tasting, it was delicious.

Ship Lost In Storm

When we came to a place called "Ship Harbour," the vessels were obliged to lie to for a couple of days, in consequence of bad weather. We had a very heavy sea, and the winds were very rough, and previous to our reaching Ship Harbour, had lost one of the vessels belonging to the fleet, which I believe was never heard of. It must have gone down, as a few days afterwards, the bodies of some of the crew were picked up on shore, where they had been cast, and were recognized by the device and number on their buttons. Fortunately there were no Americans on board of her.

Here we were transferred to another vessel, bound to England after we had been put on board we were ordered to go below among the sick and invalids—they were then dying fast, and they were every day throwing them overboard; the place too, was very filthy, and full of vermin. We refused to go down, and remained on deck the whole day, which was bitterly cold and the wind very high. We then petitioned the Admiral for better quarters than those assigned to us, and declared in the strongest terms that we would otherwise remain on deck until we perished, and we walked the deck from early in the morning until dark, when one of the army officers invited us into their cabin, where we had something prepared for us to eat, which was the first meal we had eaten since we had our lobsouse the day previous.

Set Sail For Halifax

Next morning we were ordered back on board of the vessel we had left, and taking advantage of the opportunity offered us by the sailors, some of whom were going ashore, we

CAGE LEADERS OUT TO CLINCH POSTS TONIGHT

By DICK HOENIG

HARRISBURG (P)—Pennsylvania's schoolboy basketball leaders are out tonight to clinch commanding positions in conference races that lead to March's playoff carnival. Four conference leads—in the North Schuylkill, South Penn, East Penn and Lehigh Valley—are on the line. Two first half champs and two challengers will be making their bid to take command in the chase for second half pennants.

One of the East's most powerful quintets, Coal Township has already stowed away the first Class A conference championship. When the Purple Demons defeated Shamokin Tuesday for their 19th win against a single loss, they clinched their fifth Keystone League flag in the last eight years.

The state's last two Class A all-winning streaks also go on the line tonight when Hollidaysburg, District 6, meets Lewisburg in a Central Mountain encounter and Berlin District 5, plays Shade, Hollidaysburg, first half Central Mountain winner, has taken 12 straight, the last over Becraft-Coalport-Irwana. Berlin, top rated in District 5, made it 18 in a row by beating Rockwood Tuesday.

Among tonight's big games: East Penn-Hazleton, second half leader with the only clean record, journeys to Allentown, the first half champ, Allentown was an upset victim of Pottsville. An Allentown win would throw the loop in confusion while a Hazleton victory would give the Mountaineers clear sailing.

South Penn—Hershey and Gettysburg, both victorious in their first three second half outings, fight it out for top rating at Gettysburg. North Schuylkill—The first round champ, Ashland, with five straight league wins, is threatened by Shenandoah, four straight. Shenandoah was the only team to defeat Ashland in the first half and that was the only time in 18 games the Black Diamonds have been licked. A win practically assures Ashland its second consecutive season championship.

Lock Haven Nears Top
Lehigh Valley-Leader Slatton (3-0) goes to Lehigh (2-1), tied for second with Whitehall.

Lock Haven, three games away from its second straight Central State championship, plays runner-up Bellefonte.

Four of the 12 Class A sections of the Pittsburgh area WPAL have crowned 1953 winners as next Tuesday's league closing date approaches.

Washington capped its fourth straight Section 4 crown Tuesday by topping Canonsburg. Ford City downed Kittanning for the Section 1 diadem and Greensburg and Charleroi made sure of the Section 2 and Section 5 races last week.

One of the year's longest winning streaks came to a halt this week when Bethlehem stopped Bethlehem Catholic after the Class B Catholic entry had taken 19 in a row.

What NATO, EDC And Schuman Plan Mean To U.S. Explained By Associated Press Reporter

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—NATO, EDC, Schuman Plan. All figure daily in the news. All involve the United States in one way or another. What do they mean? Here's an explanation.

On March 17, 1948, five European countries—Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg—signed a pact, called the Brussels Treaty, to last 50 years. They promised to help one another in case of attack of any of them. But here and abroad it was felt something stronger was needed to discourage the Russians from any warlike intentions. And three months later, June 11, 1948, the U. S. Senate approved a resolution offered by the late Sen. Vandenberg.

NATO is Created
It told the President to go ahead, for the first time in American peacetime history, and make alliances with other countries. It resulted was the creation of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

NATO now has 14 members: United States, Canada, Iceland, Norway, Denmark, Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg, Portugal, Italy, Greece, Turkey. The NATO agreement was signed April 4, 1949.

NATO members are pledged to help one another in case of attack on any of them. This was putting wheels within wheels since the five Brussels Treaty nations had now become part of NATO.

Under NATO each nation was to keep its own military forces independently. But they agreed to have one supreme commander. Right now it's American Gen. Matthew Ridgway.

Plan Unified Defense
Working with him is a staff of officers from the various NATO countries. Their job is to plan a defense based on the combined strength of all the members.

But, broad as NATO was, there was a big gap in it. It did not include Western Germany, a country whose military skill and manpower would be a powerful aid against any Russian march westward.

The French, overrun by Germany three times in a century, were worried at the thought of a new German army. So the French opposed EDC (European Defense Community)—a single army for France, Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg, Italy and West Germany.

This army would wear one uniform. It would be under a commander chosen from among themselves. Yet, it would be part of NATO. So here again was the idea of wheels within wheels.

Through such a single army made up of men from all six countries, the Germans could contribute to European defense and still not have a national army of their own.

The French proposal was made in September, 1950. Progress was slow. The U. S., which has urged European unity and likes EDC as a spearhead for NATO against Russian attack, pressed for speed.

Finally, in May 27, 1952, the six EDC countries signed their agreement. But the single EDC army couldn't come into being until the six parliaments of all six countries approved. So far none has.

Balking inside France and inside Germany, too. The reason: Politics, and ancient misgivings about one another.

Claim World Obligation
(Note that Britain, which was able to keep its own armed forces independently when it joined the Brussels Treaty group and NATO, stayed out of EDC where it would have to merge them with other nations. Britain argues it can't put all its eggs in the European basket, that it has world-wide obligations.)

Secretary of State Dulles, on his recent trip, prodded the six EDC countries to stop stalling, get down to cases and create the single army.

Yet, these six EDC countries which can't agree on merging their military forces have been able to do some very important merging on the economic side.

On May 9, 1950, French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman proposed that France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg pool their coal and steel resources.

Six Sign Agreement
The six signed the agreement April 18, 1951, and it was approved by their parliaments in June, 1952.

Briefly the plan does this: It creates a common market among all six nations for their coal and steel, knocks out tariffs between them on coal and steel, provides for a common tax. It's the biggest step toward economic unity in Europe's history.

It began to work Tuesday morning when 40 tons of coke moved across the German frontier into France, duty free.

Today's Talk

WHAT IS FAILURE?

There is often something magnificent, as exemplified in what men designate as failure in a human being. Many years ago I had given to me the diary of Henri-Frederic Amiel. He looked upon himself as a failure admitting it freely, yet before him constantly were the ideals and dreams which he refused to translate into action. His one literary gift to the world is this diary, which has given to him — fame!

Another character, about which I have been reading of late, is that of Paul Gauguin, the painter. They called him "the savage." Yet he gave up a prosperous business, a wife and five children, as well as friends, just to paint — a thing that possessed him, and so through the bitterness of poverty and disappointments, he painted. But few bought anything that he did. Only in death was his work adequately appreciated. The price of one painting of his today would have kept him alive and happily at work for the rest of his life!

What is this urge that keeps prodding the heart of a person to do the thing that lies deepest in the consciousness — that which alone satisfies, regardless of hunger, adverse criticism, or privation? Why are these crucifixions of the soul?

R. B. Cunningham-Graham once wrote this tribute to the failure: "For those," said he, "who have sunk still battling beneath the muddy waves of life, we keep our love, and that curiosity about their lives which makes their memories green when the cheap gold is dusted over, which once we gave success."

We are never a failure until we have failed ourselves! We are a success if we have listened to and answered the call of that voice within us that has told us to be, and whereby we can best serve ourselves, God, and human kind. Nothing is so sordid as a success for mere gain, whether it be money, acclaim, or position. Self-betrayal alone is failure!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Good Books" Protected, 1953, George Matthews Adams Service

Just Folks

FOURTEEN

When I was in my teens I thought The last great battle had been fought;

That men had mastered every feat And left this old world made complete.

With all inventions fashioned, too, And nothing left for me to do, No thought unwritten I could pen— But I was only fourteen then.

It seemed to be my dismal fate To have arrived on earth too late, Had not my birth been so delayed, A better trap I might have made; Or in the snows at Valley Forge Shared freedom's cause with General George.

In history lived all famous men— But I was only fourteen then. I wonder if he thinks as I: No goal ahead for him to try? Or does he know, as soon as will, Life has a post for him to fill, A dream to cherish and pursue, A task designed for him to do; Fame waits for him along the way? But he is just fourteen today.

DENY PAROLE TO COSTELLO

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U. S. Parole Board said today it has denied a parole petition by gambler Frank Costello, now serving 18 months for contempt of Congress.

Costello, after a series of unsuccessful appeals, started the federal sentence last August and would be eligible for parole tomorrow, after completing one-third of the time.

Costello is serving his time at the Milan, (Mich.) Correctional Institution.

As is usual, the board gave no reason for its action in turning him down.

Costello's conviction and sentence resulted from his refusal to answer questions before the Kefauver Senate Crime Investigating Committee.

He started his sentence at Lewisburg (Pa.) Penitentiary, was subsequently transferred to the U. S. Prison at Atlanta, and finally moved to the Milan institution.

25 Deaths In Year

Mrs. Corbin reported that during the last year the auxiliary purchased a two-burner hotplate, eight lawn benches, 72 utility boxes and $10 worth of Christmas tree ornaments for the use of the residents of the county home. Donations made by other groups, she said, included "innumerable things" including three dozen towel racks, an electric clock, tea towels and salt and pepper shakers.

In her statistical report Mrs. Corbin disclosed that 16 women and nine men, guests at the county home, died there during the past year. Four women and seven men were discharged as guests from the home and 18 men and 11 women were admitted during the year.

It was announced that the Rock Top Club of Cashtown conducted the birthday party at the home during January, giving gifts to those who had birthdays during the month and furnishing refreshments for a party for all the guests. Mrs. Clarence Deardorff, Biglerville, donated two scrapbooks of Christmas cards which were placed in the sitting rooms at the home.

Next meeting of the auxiliary will be held March 12.

about 1945, when the Blue and Gray was disbanded for the duration of World War.

Bushman Another Yet

Mr. Cook recalls that the band once made its headquarters in a building behind Culp's blacksmith shop, then located on the north side of E. Middle St., near the fire engine house. It then moved to the third floor of the Weaver Building, practicing there for many years. Later it moved to the fire engine house, first on the second floor and then to its present quarters in the rear.

Members of the Blue and Gray Thursday night announced plans for an "anniversary party" for Mr. Cook to be held within the next few weeks. One of the guests at the party, according to present plans, will be Harvey Bushman, who also celebrated 50 years of band participation before resigning last year when, he reported, "his legs gave out."

Mr. Cook estimates that he marched over 1,000 miles with bands in various parades during the 50 years. Last year alone the band marched more than 100 miles, according to its records. The summer however marked an unusual number of parades because of the connection with the Gettysburg Fire Department for participation in firemen's parades throughout this section and in the state convention parade.

Railroads Seeking Dismissal of Suit

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Federal District Judge Thomas J. Cary today studied a motion to delay taking of depositions in a 250 million dollar damage suit 37 trucking firms have filed against 31 railroads.

Counsel for most of the railroads and 33 officials named in the suit asked Judge Cary yesterday to delay depositions until he hears a petition to dismiss the suit. It accuses the railroads of illegal conspiracy to put the trucking firms out of business.

The Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association is a plaintiff and a New York public relations firm, Carl Byoir Associates, is one of the defendants. Depositions are scheduled to be taken starting Tuesday.

St. Francis Xavier unit of the National Council of Catholic Women on Monday evening. The meeting was held in the parochial social room with Mrs. Simon Redding, the president, in charge.

The Rev. William Burke, pastor of St. Mary's Church, Paradise, near Abbotstown, was the guest speaker.

Here's a closeup of Christine Jorgensen, smiling and smartly dressed, on her arrival at Idlewild Airport, New York, from Denmark, February 12. FACTS ABOUT INSECTICIDES

Are all insecticides safe to apply on vegetables whose edible parts are exposed? On fruits nearing maturity?

How may gardeners determine when it is safe to spray or dust crops and when dangers may result?

Are there any "safe" insecticides?

These and scores of additional questions may be sensibly asked about the choice and use of chemical poisons to control insect enemies on food plants. Already readers are writing the editor for such information for the growing season ahead. Fortunately there are certain basic facts known about insecticides and their use.

All chemicals that kill destructive insects on plants are poisonous, else they would not control the insect. There is, however, a wide range of incurred dangers. For example, DDT is likely to "build up" or accumulate in garden soils and later constitute there an increasing danger to human beings and animals that eat the plants or parts of the plants that grow in such soil. Too, DDT is cumulative in human and animal bodies. On the other hand, rotenone is relatively harmless to human beings but is extremely toxic to most chewing insects.

The facts lend to two safe recommendations to which the editor adheres in all advice to readers about combat of insects on vegetables and fruits: (1) Do not use DDT in any role on edible plants or where edible plants grow; (2) In all cases where the edible part of the plant is exposed, combat chewing insects with rotenone or one of the other and longer-used insecticides and sap-sucking pests with nicotine sulphate.

The writer realizes that state and federal agricultural publications recommend DDT for general use in gardens and orchards. But our opinion, backed by considerable research, remains what it was when this poison was introduced during World War II—it is far too dangerous for use on food or feed crops. And medical authorities may well turn part of their attention to the possibility that no minor portion of human ills, particularly those associated with heart and circulatory functions, may be resulting largely from the widespread use of at least a few of the newer organic fungicides and such chemical poisons as DDT on food plants.

In general most insect problems may be safely solved if the gardener will combat chewing pests with rotenone and some of the older insecticides, such as calcium arsenate and lead arsenate. Of course, the last two named poisons are not nearly as safe as is rotenone and pyrethrum.

No dangers are transmitted where seed is treated with chemicals before sowing or where such poisons as corrosive sublimate are used externally (on the plant) to combat such pests as the cabbage root maggot. But in these as well as all other cases where doubts prevail, readers should first write the editor for specific advice.

is pruned annually in late winter it becomes a vast maze of interlacing, multiplying canes and shoots.

Grape pruning consists of a simple operation based on a very important aim — to balance foliage and fruit through reducing the total number of buds and thereby the number of potential leafy shoots. For example, all the canes (last spring's leafy shoots) should be removed except four or five. These are selected for their location on the trunk and their average vigor. They are then cut back to 12 to 14 buds each or so the vine retains a total of 45 to 55 buds — the larger number on the strongest plant.

In pruning intelligently it is necessary to understand common grape terms.

The trunk is the old or basal woody portion, usually kept 2½ to 4 feet tall.

An arm is an old cane two years old or older cut back and retained as a source of future canes.

A cane is a one-year old branch that has grown from a bud left the previous spring on the trunk, arm, spur or cane.

A shoot is a leafy growth that develops from a bud on a cane. All fruit is borne on shoots.

If a grape vine is trained on an arbor for shade as well as for fruit, it may be necessary to allow the trunk to remain taller or to make more use of arms in order to distribute the remaining canes where they will best serve. But again, as in all pruned-back canes, also in all other systems of vine training, the bud-total rule for each plant should not be violated.

Owners of grape vines who have not yet written the editor for copies of our simple grape pruning instructions should do so at once. Merely enclosed a stamped, addressed envelope.

PETUNIAS

Rarely does a flower grower gain as much as half the decorative possibilities petunias offer. For examples, these hardy annuals are unexcelled in narrow borders, either in mixed or one-color roles. The are likewise striking in one-color or mixed beds, in window boxes, or massed against shrub backgrounds. In all these roles they are available in samll single types, dwarf and tall-growing, and in the giant double and The larger hybrids, including the ruffled sorts. double and ruffled members, should be started in early February by sowing seed in a sunny window flat or in a warm, sunny coldframe.

Because petunia seed is small, it should be mixed with sand and pinches strewn sparingly over a fine soil surface and merely pressed into the soil. Several growers report that they prefer to start seedlings in vermiculite. But whatever the growing medium, the tiny plants should be shifted to individual pots, cups or bands filled with rich loam or a mixture of loam and vermiculite and kept growing in a sunny coldframe. It is possible by this method of culture to have plants in an early stage of bloom by the time they may be transplanted to their growing places in late April and early May.

Year after year enterprising growers are discovering wide sales demands for thrifty plants of double and ruffled petunias started in individual containers. In fact, few other ornamentals command a more ready market in early spring than do the larger improved petunias.

In growing these plants for sale as well as for home use it is wise to mark each container with the varietal name (if any), color and type. This is doubly important where plants of a solid color are desired for a special effect. And on this point it should be emphasized that beginners should not hesitate to try out their originality of design and grow petunias, especially the large sorts, in solid beds and narrow borders.

Later in the spring, preferably after the soil begins to warm in late April, beds of the small single sorts may be started by sowing seed where the plants are to grow, either in solid or mixed colors. All petunias will continue to bloom profusely until fall frosts come, providing faded blooms are removed every few days to prevent formation of seed pods.

There are so many beautiful petunias available that choices are actually made difficult by merit. Of course, every grower wants at least a dozen or more of the large double and ruffled sorts in white and several distinct colors as well as variegated shades. Some of this select set are unnamed, most of them are building deserved favor by name.

If these improved sorts are lifted in mid-September and potted in fertile loam, they may be used effectively for indoor flowering all winter.

Petunias prefer a deeply mellow, well-drained loam in full sun although they thrive in a wide range of soil types. Care is negligible except to prevent faded flowers to prevent seed pod formation. Few insects bother petunias and growers report no serious disease outbreaks — merits well worth consideration in this age of widespread plant problems.

Johns Hopkins Wrestlers To Meet Bullets Here Saturday At 8 p.m.; Cagers At Lehigh

Three of the five Gettysburg College athletic teams scheduled for action Saturday will be performing here, the program being featured by the wrestling match Saturday evening at 8 o'clock between Jack Shainline's unbeaten Bullets and John Hopkins University of Baltimore.

The local wrestlers have swept past Haverford, Temple and Muhlenberg without being extended, the triumphs over Haverford and Muhlenberg being 3-0 shutouts.

Johns Hopkins is reported to have a fairly strong team and the Bullets are anticipating their stiffest test to date. Following Saturday's affair, Gettysburg meets the powerful Franklin and Marshall matmen here next Wednesday evening.

Coach Shainline has announced the following lineup for Saturday: 123, Don Woods; 130 Sam Evangelista; 137, Jim Hammond; 147, Earl Yost; 157, Al Bernstein; 167, Al Hershberger; 177, Jim Spangler, and heavyweight, Ronnie Miller.

The Bullet swimming team, coached by Jim Lentz, will meet Temple here at 2:30 Saturday afternoon while Grace Kenney's coed cagers meet Lock Haven at 2 p.m.

Lehigh On Win Streak
"Hen" Bream will take his Bullet varsity basketball team to Bethlehem for a return engagement with Lehigh Saturday evening.

The Engineers gained a 66-57 victory here on January 17 and should prove equally tough on their home court. Lehigh has a 9-5 record to date with a current winning streak of three.

Snapping their four four-game losing streak will be a big task for the Bullets who appear to have lost the speed and zip which contributed so heavily when they were riding on a seven-game winning streak. Their present record is 8-7.

Johnny Yovician who had been confined to home due to illness, will rejoin his freshman cagers for their game with York Junior College at York Saturday evening. Undoubtedly York will be the strongest outfit to oppose the unbeaten Bullet yearlings so far this season.

G-BURG JUNIOR HIGH DEFEATS DELONE FROSH

The fast-stepping Gettysburg Junior High cagers won their fifth straight victory Thursday evening by edging the Delone freshmen 31-25 at McSherrystown. The triumph gives the locals a 9-2 record.

Despite victory, the local outfit played ragged ball and will have to improve if they hope to win any of their remaining tilts. After Delone held a 6-4 lead at the end of the first period, Coach Rogers Herr's lads swept ahead 15-10 at half time and remained in front until the finish.

Rallying in the final two minutes of play, the reserves came from behind to win the preliminary game 25-22 for their seventh win against four setbacks.

Next Tuesday evening Mechanicsburg will come here for a pair of games.

Ogden Stays On As Scout For Braves

BOSTON—The Boston Braves have re-engaged John Ogden, former Pennsylvania-Maryland-Delaware territory.

Ogden, whose new job was announced by Boston General Manager John Quinn yesterday, served as a Braves scout from 1943 to 1950, discovering Bill Bruton, Dave Cole and Jack Daniels, among others.

A professional hurler for 18 seasons, Ogden—now 55—saw action with the St. Louis Browns, Cincinnati Reds, New York Giants and Philadelphia Phillies. He also played with Baltimore in the International League.

GHS, Hershey Meet Here Tonight In Crucial Contest

Tonight the Gettysburg High School cagers face their big game of the campaign when they tangle with Hershey's Trojans here in a battle for first place in the second half race of the South Penn League.

Currently the teams are in a deadlock for top honors with 3-0 records. The victor tonight will justly go into the favorite's role to earn the right to meet Carlisle, first half winners, in a playoff for the league championship.

Both teams realize the importance of tonight's affair and are primed for an all-out effort. Hershey will depend heavily on Fred Evans, the league's leading scorer.

A big backing of fans is expected to come here from Hershey to make tonight's crowd the largest this year.

At 6:45 the jayvees will clash. Gettysburg and Hershey, together with Carlisle, Chambersburg and Hanover, are all deadlocked in the tight race for first place with 2-1 logs.

WHITE SOX ARE SIGNING FAST; NELSON FOX IN

NEW YORK—The Chicago White Sox, who figure to do a lot of running on the base paths during the 1953 season, also are moving at a fast clip in the contract-signing league.

The White Sox, who open their spring training activities at El Centro, Calif., Sunday, announced the signing of Nelson Fox, their peppy second baseman, yesterday.

"Nellie" became the 36th pale nose player to come to terms, leaving only the newly acquired Vern Stephens outside the fold. Stephens, obtained from the Boston Red Sox earlier this week, has not yet been sent a White Sox contract.

$20,000 For Cox
Fox, a .296 batter last season, signed for a reported $20,000. He led the American League in hits with 192, his total being topped in the major leagues only by Stan Musial's 194.

Pitchers dominated the other contract signing news yesterday. Righthander Steve Gromek agreed to terms with the Cleveland Indians. The veteran moundsman announced he was determined to become a starting pitcher with the Tribe this season. He had a 7-7 record in 1952.

Boyer's Arm Okay
Cloyd Boyer, a satisfied St. Louis Cardinal, said in a letter to Cardinal President Fred Saigh his right arm, which gave him trouble the past couple of years, was in good shape. Boyer won six games and dropped the same number last year.

Others to come to terms were catcher Jim Hegan of Cleveland, pitcher Jim McDonald New York Yankees and pitchers Bill Werle, Ralph Brickner and Ken Holcombe of the Boston Red Sox.

The Yankees reduced their roster by selling veteran relief pitcher Joe Ostrowski to Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast League.

COEDS DIVIDE CAGE CONTESTS

The Gettysburg College girls staged a brilliant 20-point rally in the last period but lost a 46-43 decision to Elizabethtown on the latter's floor Thursday for their initial setback of the season. Coach Grace Kenney's sextet had previously defeated Moravian.

The Bullets jayvees encountered little trouble in winning the preliminary tilt 43-31.

Lock Haven State Teachers College will meet the local varsity here Saturday at 2 p.m.

Syracuse Defeats Hershey Bears, 5-3

By The Associated Press
There's no telling where the Syracuse Warriors will finish in the American Hockey League this season. But if they continue to use Sam Casonato on defense they may be well up in the standings.

Casonato, switched from his usual wing position to the back line last night, scored three goals as the Warriors defeated the Hershey Bears, 5-3. The "hat trick" helped Syracuse move into a fourth place tie with the St. Louis Flyers.

Casonato's tallies came in the second period as Syracuse took a 4-1 lead. Dunc Fisher's goal early in the third period pulled Hershey closer but Leo Curik's marker again put Syracuse comfortably in front.

SHANE BROOK IS NEW PRESIDENT OF BALL LEAGUE

Four teams—Bonneauville, Brushtown, Huntertown and Bendersville—were present and announced they were ready to again participate in the South Penn Baseball League at a reorganization meeting of the circuit Thursday evening at the American Legion Home, Baltimore St.

It was reported that Barlow and Granite will definitely not enter teams this season.

Greenmount and the Hanover Legion were not represented at the meeting but it is believed they plan to again place teams.

It was unofficially reported that New Oxford and the Fairfield Shoe Co. are interested in entering teams.

Roy Shanebrook, Bonneauville, was elected as the new president to succeed Kenneth Knox, Gettysburg. Other officers chosen were William King, Huntertown, vice president, and Chester Shriver, Gettysburg, R. D., who was re-named secretary-treasurer. Shriver presided at the meeting in the absence of Knox.

Another meeting has been listed for next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the Legion Home when the complete league's roster of teams is expected to be made.

Buzz Fazio, captain of the world match championship bowling team, scored an odd series recently. He hit 279, 158 and 288 for a 275 total. Fazio had 11 strikes in his first game, one in the second and ten in the final.

ASK PROBE OF ROBERTS DEAL, $11,000 FEE

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—Kansas legislators today asked an investigation of a 1951 state business transaction in which C. W. (Wes) Roberts, now the Republican party's national chairman, received a reported $11,000 fee.

A lawmaker raised the question of lobbying and said he could not find that Roberts was registered as a lobbyist at the time. This is required by state law.

Roberts declared: "There is no mystery about any part of the entire transaction. I have never engaged in any lobbying at any time."

"Cyclone In A Thimble"

He said it appeared to him "somebody is trying to stir up a cyclone in a thimble."

An insurance firm reported yesterday it paid Roberts $11,000 to negotiate the sale of a building to the state in 1951. Roberts at that time was in public relations work.

The State Legislature appropriated $110,000 to buy the building.

State Sen. W. D. Weigand, a Republican who also was a member of the 1951 legislature, said:

"Favors Investigation"

"I would consider that Mr. Roberts was engaged in lobbying

Ex-Senator Reed Is Buried Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Scores of friends arrived here today for the funeral of David A. Reed, former U. S. senator from Pennsylvania, who died in Florida Tuesday.

Services for the 72-year-old lawyer will be conducted this afternoon in Ft. Myer Chapel and at the grave. Maj. Gen. Luther D. Miller, retired, former chief of Army chaplains, will officiate. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

Reps. Graham (R-Pa.) and Eberharter (D-Pa.) eulogized Reed in the House yesterday. They referred to him as a great statesman and one of the most able men ever to serve in the Senate.

Reed, a Republican, served in activities. I definitely feel there should be further investigation of this matter."

Roberts, in Washington, issued a statement saying that "as a private citizen I was legitimately employed in my capacity as a public relations counsel to prepare the facts concerning the hospital building for presentation by my client to the proper state agencies."

"Officials of these state agencies determined the legality of ownership and the fair value of the structure and recommended the appropriation. My compensation was paid for services rendered to my client, a private insurance company."

Lincoln Dinner

Americans, their characters were the same, their ideals parallel, and the things they said and did will remain bright in the minds and hearts of freemen for all time to come. We honor ourselves when we honor them.

Maintain Lincoln Principles

"Republicans have clung tenaciously through the years to the principles promulgated by Lincoln, our first Republican president. They have clearly understood that the things he stood for are vitally important to the preservation of our heritage."

"Socialistic and paternalistic ideas of government did not abide within his kindly heart and understanding mind. Many of his public utterances made this fact clear. For example, in 1854, before he became president, he pointed out in an address that 'the legitimate object of government is to do for a community of people whatever they need to have done, but cannot do at all, or cannot so well do for themselves in their separate and individual capacities. In all that the people can do for themselves, government ought not to interfere.'

"All of us are keenly conscious of the type of thinking that has been followed in the operation of the federal government these past 20 years. Certainly it has been diametrically opposite to the philosophy of government advocated and practiced by Lincoln. . . . The results have been painful. In its wake have come confiscatory taxation, deficit spending, and an astronomical national debt. Our people have been regimented and demoralized through these inimical practices."

War Victories In Vain

"Improvident international bargains have made in vain the victories of our armed forces. Dishonesty has been tolerated among the Senate from 1922 to 1935. He was a major of artillery in World War I and won the Distinguished Service Medal as well as the French Legion of Honor.

Start the Day Right

...without After-Breakfast Slump

Why start the day feeling dull and logy because of too much acid churning in your stomach? Just 1 or 2 Tums, eaten after breakfast will pull you out of that "after-breakfast slump"—put you back on top of the world again. Tums quickly neutralize excess acid. Contain no soda to over-alkalize or cause acid rebound. No mixing, no water needed. Just eat like candy. Always keep Tums handy for record-fast relief from acid stomach.

Still only 10¢ a Roll

TUMS FOR THE TUMMY

Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, above, under sentence of death as atom spies, were refused executive clemency, February 11, by President Eisenhower. They are slated to die in the electric chair in Sing Sing Prison at Ossining, N. Y. The President, in rejecting their pleas for clemency, said they had been accorded "their full measure of justice."

public officials. The currency has been deliberately devalued. Inflation has been brought to plague us. Our national economy has been juggled into the realm of animated suspension, clear of the firm foundations upon which it was built.

"It is to the undying credit of the Republican Party that it refused to give up the fight to have the principles and policies of Lincoln applied again to the operation of our government. . . . Members of our party, together with clear thinking Democrats, have begun to applaud the curative remedies that are being applied by the new administration. It is a source of immense satisfaction to observe that at long last we are headed back to the principles and policies of Lincoln."

GOP Kept Faith

"It is most heartening to see our new foreign policy unfolding. It is being spelled out in crystal clear language, that can be understood by us at home, our allies and our enemies alike. It is clear that we do not propose to make an unprovoked attack against the Communists. We do propose, however, to preserve our freedom, whatever be the price. We will insist that our allies make sacrifices in the common defense, in proportion to their respective capacities that are equal to our own. We will proceed under the theory that the Iron Curtain can and will be removed from within, rather than by storming it from without."

"Republicans have kept the faith with the principles and policies of Abraham Lincoln. President Eisenhower did not waste any time in putting them to work. On this day we give thanks for the character, courage and teaching of The Great Emancipator. Our destiny and that of our beloved country are bound about them, in the search for peace, happiness and economic security."

Lt. Gov. Wood was introduced by State Senator Donald P. McPherson Jr.

Bert Sheldon Speaks

"The Spirituality of the Commander" was the topic of another talk on Lincoln, given at the dinner by Bert Sheldon, founder of the Lincoln Group of the District of Columbia, a leader in the Washington chapter of the Civil War Roundtable and program chairman of the Lincoln group. Mr. Sheldon, a native of Jefferson, Mo., is an officer in the District of Columbia police force, and an authority on Lincoln.

"Before Lincoln's election to the presidency, no man had less evidence or indication of greatness than he," Mr. Sheldon said. "He had had some experience in public life. He had served once as congressman and four two-year terms in the Illinois state legislature, but he had never held an executive office. He was a country lawyer with about one year's formal education, I ever before had any man received so little training for so exalted a place in history. Yet there was never a time of greater apprehension and controversy than those few months immediately prior to the Civil War, and then—out of the common people arose this great man."

"Keep in mind, that while I am talking about Lincoln, I have in my mind another man now occupying the White House. I think we can find a great similarity between the two men," Mr. Sheldon said.

Had Much Faith

"Prior to Lincoln's election, he had said: 'I know there is a God and that He hates injustice and slavery. I see the storm coming and His hand in it. If He has a work and a place for men, and I think He has, I believe I am ready, I am nothing, but truth is everything.'"

"He took that attitude of high idealism and much faith in the Great Architect of the Universe with him to the terrible task ahead. The genuineness of Lincoln's reverence and faith came from his source of greater power, his prayerfulness. Again and again he had recourse to prayerful petition. It gave him conviction and courage. It stabilized and strengthened him. You cannot account for him apart from this. You cannot possibly fully understand him in conduct or in verbal expression without sensing the strong undercurrent of spirituality in him."

"We Are Coming"

"Things did not go well during the first years of the war. The Confederate flag flew alarmingly close to Washington, and up to the very gates of the Capital pushed the Gray-coated army. There were tragic defeats which brought grief and bitter discouragement to the people of the north, but when Lincoln called for 75,000 volunteers almost four times that many responded, a mighty vanguard of those thousands who were to come later singing 'We Are Coming, Father Abraham, 300,000 Strong.'"

"The Civil War President attained his high and unique position and accomplished his immortal work by virtue of his inspired intelligence, without which I doubt that he could have written the Bixby letter, the Second Inaugural or the Gettysburg Address."

"What the world has desperate need of today is Lincoln's love of his fellow man and his integrity. I think we have them in our new President. There are many incidents to indicate beyond all misunderstanding that Lincoln then, just as Eisenhower today, walked the road of the war years with the armed forces on his left hand while on his right was the firm, sincere belief that God's influence and God's blessing was his staff to guide him and to lean upon in his hour of trouble."

Introduce Guests

The dinner and program marked the annual Lincoln Day observance of the Adams County Republican Club. County Chairman John H. Basehore was toastmaster. Piano music was played by Prof. Richard B. Shade and Carl Menchey led in the singing of America. The invocation was given by Dr. Ralph R. Gresh, pastor of St. James Lutheran Church.

Among those introduced during the evening were Mrs. Ruth Orner Bendersville, county vice chairman; Mrs. Lloyd H. Wood; Mrs. Gresh; C. W. Elpey, state committeeman; George Baker, Abbotstown, chairman of the county executive committee; Congressman S. Walter Stauffer, York; Sen. McPherson; Assemblyman Francis Worley; Oliver Dickey, Cumberland County GOP chairman and C. L. Eicholtz, New Oxford.

During the evening, a mixed ensemble of Biglerville High School students, under the direction of Prof. Charles Yost, sang six numbers, "One World," "Sons and Daughters of a Land Reborn," "Ride in the Chariot," "Italian Street Song," "Stodala" and Battle Hymn of the Republic."

Here it is... in a Class by itself... the NEW FERGUSON "30"
Come in and see it today. Then ask for a demonstration on your own farm. We'll be happy to arrange one for you at any time.

FERGUSON TRACTOR AND 63 FERGUSON SYSTEM IMPLEMENTS
Check the many features of the new Ferguson 30 Tractor. Talk to the many farmers who are using them. If you try one, you, too, will be convinced of the many advantages this tractor offers over your present tractor you may have.

The hydraulic system on this tractor has no equal. It has been copied many times. The above Ferguson Tractor will handle 3-bottom plows in most of our soil around here.
A lot of people will say that you must use Ferguson mounted implements on these tractors. The reason customers do buy mounted implements is because they are cheaper, and are a lot easier to put on and take off with a 3-point hook-up. Also, you have finger-tip control. You can convert a Horse Corn Planter for about $18.00 into a mounted planter for your Ferguson Tractor.

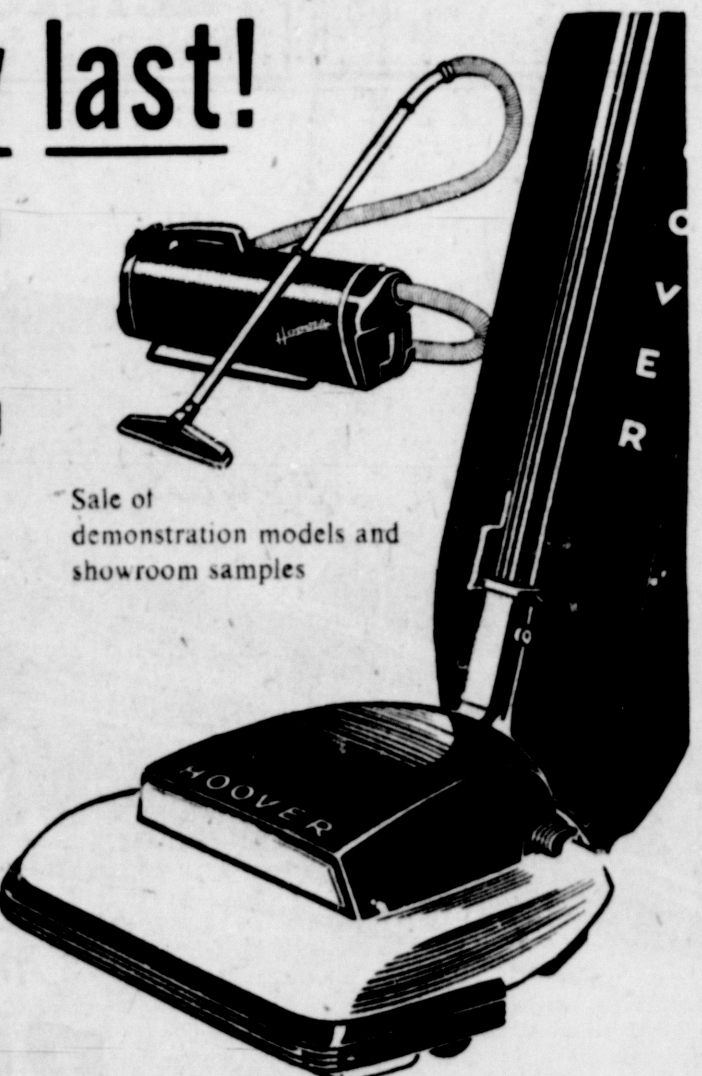

Check the many features on these tractors. Compare the price. You can buy a Ferguson Tractor, Plows and Cultivator for less than most full 2-plow tractors alone are selling for. The price on our Ferguson 30 Tractor is $1,765.00. Part can be financed.

If you are thinking of trading, stop in now. Note: We have no salesmen on the road. Our satisfied customers keep us in business.

TO QUIZ DULLES ABOUT FORMOSA

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles offered senators some avenues of inquiry into the nation's new Formosa policy today amid renewed calls for an Allied conference on future steps in the Pacific.

Democratic senators particularly breathed easier after assurances that President Eisenhower is unlikely to make any quick decisions on a naval blockade of Red China, bombing of Manchurian bases or similar dramatic action.

But they eagerly awaited the chance to put "Where do we go from here?" questions to Dulles at a closed meeting of the Senate foreign relations subcommittee on Far Eastern affairs.

The Senate Armed Services Committee awaited the return of Gen. James A. Van Fleet to get the details of how he thinks a general offensive would succeed in Korea. Van Fleet, who is retiring, gave up command of the Eighth Army last Tuesday.

He said then he was sure a general offensive at this time would succeed. In Honolulu, en route home, he said yesterday he felt such a big push would not broaden the war beyond Korea. As to his appearing before the Senate committee, the general said: "I will just answer their questions the best I can."

GLENDAL, Calif. (AP)—The 1952 pennant, the fourth in a row for the Yankees, was the "best pennant we won," claims manager Casey Stengel. "We had to win it on the road that last month when the other clubs had the last times at bat."

Dulles Sees Good Chance For European Defense Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles says "there is a good chance" for formation of a European Defense Community but he hopes that "concrete evidence" of progress will be forthcoming promptly.

Dulles gave that report of his impressions of a flying trip to European capitals, from which he returned Monday, in a radio and television broadcast to the nation last night.

He cautioned that the alternatives to formation of a European Defense Community are considered by President Eisenhower to be weak, and he said the security of Europe itself and in some degree the security of the United States against the power of Russia depend upon successful accomplishment of the undertaking.

6 Nations Signed
Six European nations — Italy, France, West Germany, The Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg — signed a treaty to create the EDC last May. Dulles said it was then expected this treaty and related arrangements for tying it to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization would be ratified and made operative in six months. Actually, he noted, months have passed and ratification is still lacking.

This has been "disconcerting" to the U. S., Dulles said, because American security plans are based upon eventual inclusion of German military strength in the Western European defense system. That, he said, is what the EDC was designed to accomplish.

EDC was developed by European leaders, he declared, and in supporting it the U. S. has not "been trying to impress an American scheme on Europe."

We Sent $30 Billions
In the past seven years, he said, this country has contributed 30 billion dollars to Europe and stationed "tens of thousands of our armed forces" there because European security vitally affects American security.

"But our effort," he continued, "will not permanently serve Europe, or ourselves, or humanity, unless it fits into a constructive program for European unity. Nothing that the U. S. can do will ever be enough to make Europe safe if it is divided into rival national camps."

"President Eisenhower himself said recently that he was impressed with the 'feebleness' of alternatives to the European Defense Community."

No Other Plan
The Eisenhower administration is understood to have no alternative plan for the defense of Western Europe under formal study, having committed itself instead to DC.

There are at least two theoretical alternatives. One would be for the U. S. to make direct arrangements for the rearmament of Western Germany, though that is considered virtually impossible because of French opposition; and the other would be for the U. S. to make new plans for a peripheral defense built upon bases in England, Spain, Greece and other positions outside the heart of Europe.

Pope Asks Spies Be Spared "If Possible"

VATICAN CITY (AP)—L'Osservatore Romano said today Pope Pius XII has intervened in behalf of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, atomic spies sentenced to death in the United States.

The Vatican newspaper indicated the pontiff has asked that, if possible, their lives be spared.

The newspaper said its statement was printed in reply to accusations in some newspapers (notably the Communist press) that the pontiff had remained "impassive" to pleas directed to him to intervene in the case.

"It is well known," said L'Osservatore, "that His Holiness, even without being able to enter into the merits of cases, never refuses his interest when asked to save human life for superior motives of charity proper to his apostolic mission."

"And, as he has mercifully done in similar cases, so, also in this he intervened to the extent permitted to him, considering there is a lack of all official relations with the competent governing authorities of the United States."

Student Is Killed By "Souped Up" Car

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—An auto described by police as a "souped up hot rod" struck and killed a Philadelphia youth near suburban Villanova College last night.

Police said the victim, Robert Ellis, 20, a student at the college, was dragged more than 300 feet after being struck. When the body was thrown clear, authorities said, the auto continued on another 300 feet before stopping.

The driver, identified by police as Ronald C. Souders, 20, of Haverford, Pa., was held in $3,500 bail for the Montgomery County coroner by Justice of the Peace Agnes F. Walsh, of Radnor Township.

Police said Souders was charged with involuntary manslaughter, aggravated assault and battery and reckless driving. Souders pleaded not guilty to the charges.

The victim was the son of A. J. Ellis, president of a Philadelphia construction company.

COLLEGE HEADS CONFRONTED BY T-V PROBLEMS

By FRANK ECK
NEW YORK (AP)—There was a time when students and alumni could be heard yelling for a football coach's scalp. Times have changed. Now the yell seems to be for more televised football.

Rare was the week during the gridiron campaign when some school failed to request permission from the National Collegiate Athletic Association to televise its game.

Controlled television in NCAA called it, and 10 games, plus the Army-Navy classic, were televised nationally. The only exception to the planned schedule was a national telecast of the last 20 minutes of the Notre Dame-Southern California game.

Foiled By Plays
There were times when a parlor viewer felt like going back to the faithful radio. One of those occasions came up in the Army-Navy game when the Navy team faked a kick. The television camera focused his lens masterfully on the goal posts only to find there was no football. Instead of kicking, Navy tried a forward pass and the play was over by the time the cameraman located the elusive pigskin.

At the beginning of the year 10 college presidents came up with a code that would rule out spring football practice, forbid postseason games and wipe out athletic scholarships.

At last reports all the bowl games of previous years were to be held on New Year's Day. The NCAA did not see eye to eye with the special committee set up by the American Council on Education in the matter of postseason games, spring practice and athletic scholarships.

Ivy League Action
However, the Ivy League colleges in the east saw something in the A.C.E. recommendations and five weeks after the NCAA meetings in Cincinnati last winter, the Ivy group abolished football clinics, spring practice and post-season games for its players and coaches.

Michigan State was the No. 1 team by virtue of a power-packed lineup that beat all nine rivals, including Notre Dame, the upstart of champions, and Purdue, co-champion of the Big Ten with Wisconsin. Unfortunately for Michigan State it missed the Rose Bowl because it only becomes a Big Ten football member in 1953. The Spartans finished the campaign with a 24-game winning streak.

Georgia Tech, playing 11 games was the nation's only other major unbeaten team. It allowed seven touchdowns.

Irish "Return"
Notre Dame, though beaten by Michigan State and Pitt and tied by Penn. returned to power. The Irish upset three champions — Southern Cal. of the Pacific Coast, Oklahoma of the Big Seven and Texas of the Southwest.

Biggest disappointment was Maryland. After showing a stout defense in beating back its first seven rivals the Terps lost to Mississippi, 21-14, and to Alabama, 27-6.

A touch of scandal reached Maryland when its ace quarterback, Jack Sarbach, and two other players were reported that a student who had been out for football two years at Maryland offered them a bribe to help down the score against LSU. Maryland beat LSU, 34-6.

Professional football's biggest setback came when the Dallas Texans, formerly the New York Yanks, lost about $250,000 and forfeited its franchise in the National Football League.

Outstanding rookies in the pro circuit included Hugh McElhenny of the San Francisco 49ers, Eddie LeBaron of the Washington Redskins, Ollie Matson of the Chicago Cardinals and Babe Parilli of the Green Bay Packers.

Use Torches To Get Trapped Driver
WEST CHESTER, Pa. (AP)—Rescuers using acetylene torches worked two hours yesterday to free a Wilmington, Del., truck driver from the cab of his vehicle after it had plowed into a utility pole, disrupting electric power to a college and 500 homes here.

Allen C. Davis, 58, died several hours later in Chester County Hospital. The truck, loaded with oil, tore down wire supplying power to West Chester State Teachers College and a number of residents in the area.

Editors Rap Fine For Press "Censorship"
HARRISBURG (AP)—Gov. John S. Fine's directive channeling state government news releases through his office today met charges of censorship from newspapermen although the governor directly denied any form of censoring was involved.

"Such an order throws another roadblock in the path of the free flow of news to the public," the Associated Press Managing Editors wired the governor.

"It is censorship of news which the public has a right to get directly from its source."

The order provides for the screening by the governor's office of all but "purely routine news releases" in "the interest of securing greatly needed conformity to administration policies." It was sent Bureau, department and agency heads Monday and disclosed yesterday.

State newspaper organizations immediately petitioned the governor to "make clear just what he means by 'in the interest of conformity'."

More White House News Being Given

WASHINGTON (AP)—Eisenhower administration officials were said today to be taking steps to give out more news on White House meetings, from Cabinet sessions to casual callers.

The heavy blanket of silence with which most White House visitors have met the queries of newsmen since Eisenhower took over is said to be disturbing some officials who believe they can see the makings of a bad press if it continues.

For instance, Vice President Nixon, among others, apparently believes it would be better in the long run to tell reporters at least some of the subjects discussed at Cabinet meetings than to increase the speculation that comes with "no comment" answers to questions.

EDITORS RAP FINE FOR PRESS "CENSORSHIP"

HARRISBURG (AP)—Gov. John S. Fine's directive channeling state government news releases through his office today met charges of censorship from newspapermen although the governor directly denied any form of censoring was involved.

"Such an order throws another roadblock in the path of the free flow of news to the public," the Associated Press Managing Editors wired the governor.

"It is censorship of news which the public has a right to get directly from its source."

The order provides for the screening by the governor's office of all but "purely routine news releases" in "the interest of securing greatly needed conformity to administration policies." It was sent Bureau, department and agency heads Monday and disclosed yesterday.

State newspaper organizations immediately petitioned the governor to "make clear just what he means by 'in the interest of conformity'."

"On the face of it, I would suggest that it is high time the governor makes a move to coordinate and strengthen his position with the newsmen covering the capital by scheduled press conferences," commented the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association through its president, James S. Lyon, of the Washington (Pa.) Observer and Reporter.

Jerome Weinstein, secretary of the Pennsylvania Society of Newspaper Editors, offered the help of the PSNE to assist "in every way to obtain clarification and to study the implications of Gov. Fine's order."

The governor, contacted at Milwaukee where he went for a Lincoln Day observance, said the order was not new and that it applied only to legislation.

"There is no intention of censorship and it doesn't apply to other news. Newspapermen will be free to come and go as always. The departments will cooperate with them on any department activity," Fine said.

He added that the same rule was in effect during the 1951 Legislature as a means of coordinating the administration's legislative policy.

Vernon Heilman of the York Dispatch, new chairman of the Freedom of Information Committee of the Pennsylvania AP Managing Editors, said he personally considers the order ill-advised.

May Block News
Heilman declined to comment for his committee because the names of committee members have not yet been officially announced.

"I feel that this might result in legitimate news being denied to newsmen at the source, such as at times when it might be impossible to clear an item through the governor's office," Heilman said.

Gov. Fine explained that he didn't want departments or department bureau chiefs working at cross purposes. That means that undersecretaries or chiefs of bureaus no longer will be permitted to lobby through newspaper publicity for pet legislation.

Officer Is Killed By Small Bullet

FT. DIX, N. J. (AP)—Second Lt. Richard M. Davenport was killed by a small arms bullet, and not by fragments from an exploding shell as originally reported, the Army disclosed last night.

An autopsy disclosed that Davenport, who was fatally wounded Wednesday in an infantry attack problem in which live ammunition was used, actually was killed by a bullet. The bullet presumably was fired from a .30 caliber M1 rifle, Capt. Harry Lapham, public information officer, said.

Davenport, of New London, Conn., was leading a group of advanced trainees on the infantry assault range when he was killed.

PAFKO TO AID BOSTON BRAVES 1953 CHANCES

By FRANK ECK
The Associated Press
NEW YORK (AP)—For a time it seemed like it was Fort Worth and Andy Pafko. The Brooklyn Dodgers tried to unload both during the same week.

The Dodger organization lost money last season and had to wait until the seventh game of the World Series to wind up in the black (Owners do not figure in the gates receipts of the first four Series games.)

Thus, it appeared that when the Dodgers found no buyer for their Texas League team they decided to unload Pafko, a $350,000 a year man, for something "in excess of $50,000."

Such was not the case, however, points out Dodger Vice President E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi who says the "Port Worth losses were negligible."

One thing is certain, Pafko turned out to be more valuable than the Fort Worth franchise. A least he is more valuable to the Boston Braves, a team whose losses during 1952 have been reported at various figures ranging from $600,000 up.

The Braves had a very poor audience last year, so poor that it wouldn't look good mentioning it again. They drew peanuts. But now interest has been revived in Boston.

Interest Revived
"The fans are even beginning to call up for season tickets," says General Manager John Quinn. "Andy is going to pay dividends."

Charley Grimm and Tommy Holmes, who divided the Braves' managerial chores last season, both feel the same way. There was little the Braves could do against left-handed pitching with all their lefty swingers in the lineup. The Braves were "outplayed to death." In fact they finished seventh, 4½ games away from the Cincinnati Reds. But now it looks as though the Reds took that spot only on a one-year lease.

The Braves have the potential to move up, provided Pafko and Sid Gordon hit close to their customary 300 marks. With the Braves seeing loss left-handed pitching, Ed Mathews could be one of the most feared batters in the circuit.

I recall what Buddy Hassett, ex-Yankee first baseman, once said about left-handed pitchers versus left-handed batters. "When I saw a lefty out on the mound I was always glad to take my three swings and sit down," Hassett said.

Mathews must have felt the same way last year. He was only 20 years old and at times looked like a babe lost in the woods. He struck out 115 times. But on other occasions he looked like the guy who would break Babe Ruth's home run record.

Hit 25 Home Runs
He hit 25 home runs in a league that found only three men—Ralph Kiner, Hank Sauer and Gil Hodges—hitting more. With Pafko and Gordon as the Braves right handed attack it wouldn't be surprising if Manager Grimm sandwiched Mathews between them.

Mathews started off poorly, as most rookies do, but by the end of the campaign he had hit 242 and slugged .447, the latter figure good enough for 13th in a league that had only one Robin Roberts in 1952.

There was no doubt last spring that Mathews could hit a long ball but there was a question whether he would stop batted balls hit down third base. "He'll hit 300, maybe," some writers said, "but he'll also field 300."

Well, rookie Mathews did neither. At first he seemed to miff easy plays and at times made the wrong play but he made only 19 errors and was fifth among the league's third basemen. He was third in total chances and fourth in double plays.

There will be many people watching Mickey Mantle and Duke Snider during the coming season off their slugging in the World Series. But it would not surprise this corner if Mathews turned out to be the most improved hitter in baseball. Seeing fewer left handed pitchers should help. He might even hit 40 home runs. That's what the Pafko deal could do for the Braves and Mathews.

Sunday School Lesson
By
Rev. Dr. Howard R. and Margaret C. Gold

GAINING OR LOSING A KINGDOM
Matthew 21:33-43
Key Verse: Fear not, little flock, for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom. Luke 12:32

Opposition to Jesus from Jewish leaders was growing in volume and intensity. He was keenly aware of this. To Him the cross was in plain view. In our parable He aimed to show dramatically how this tragic end would be reached; what the persistent opposition of His enemies would lead to. He chose the vineyard as a setting. The characters stand out clearly.

God is the owner of the vineyard. The Jews, especially the leaders, are given charge during the landlord's absence. The arrangement is the old system of "farming on shares" practiced widely in our own day. The terrible tragedies occurred when the landlord sent servants, and finally His Son, to claim His share of the harvest. They were all killed. God's plan for the welfare of His people was treated with contempt. Or, as George A. Buttrick states it, "The rejected overtures of God," as a suitable title for the parable. It suggests several comments.

God's gracious provision for the life of His people. A vineyard was a well known plantation in Palestine. The one used by Jesus as an illustration was very well arranged and equipped; it was already planted, a hedge set around it to keep away animals, a winepress provided, a watch-tower to detect possible thieves. It is a picture of the love of God expressed in the bountiful provision for man's welfare. God has well provided for body and soul.

The tenants of the vineyard were free to do as they thought best with what was left in their care. The owner did not watch over them but "went into another country." An illustration of the freedom given to mankind; a factor so highly valued, defended so jealously and at any cost. The only requirement was a share of the fruit of the plantation. That seemed fair enough. We see in this arrangement the element of true stewardship. The tenants were in possession as if it were their own. The only stipulation was that an agreed share should be given the landlord. That is true as it applies to all of life. We may do with it as we will, but, to borrow a line from Tennyson, "Our wills are ours to make them Thine." The fruit of our lives is to be shared with God. Our Father has great faith in His children.

The time for gathering the fruit and sharing them comes in due time. The landlord sends to bring him back his share. They are over them but "went into another country." An illustration of the freedom given to mankind; a factor so highly valued, defended so jealously and at any cost. The only requirement was a share of the fruit of the plantation. That seemed fair enough. We see in failures although their messages were divinely inspired. But that the Son should be rejected (and so cruelly) after His gracious and compassionate message had been delivered seems unbelievable, and yet to this day He suffers the same fate. He is either ignored or repudiated. His wholehearted acceptance, rather, should be the fervent act of all who share in the fruits of God's vineyard.

BOY SCOUTS ON PARADE

Two great facts stand out in modern social thought—the potentialities of youth and the obligation resting upon the older generation to turn these hidden powers into safe and useful channels.

In some countries youth and childhood are exploited to foster political aims and bolster the power of totalitarian dictators. Such organizations desecrate youth and add to the pain and confusion of the world.

The Boy Scouts organization exists to bless and strengthen youth itself. It seeks to develop character by inculcating the principles of truth, honesty, integrity and faith. It builds strong bodies through healthful outdoor exercises.

Religion is the safest guide in human living. Boy Scouts are taught to respect and reverence religious faith, to attend Church and put their trust in God. Scout troops seek to translate religion into practical living.

The Boy Scouts organization is a potent factor in combating juvenile delinquency. The scouts are taught to be true to God and their country, to keep themselves morally clean and physically strong. What more could a parent ask for his boy?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Blast Kills 12 At Hercules Powder Plant In California

RICHMOND, Calif. (AP)—A flicker of flame and a wisp of smoke spurted from an explosive-mixing "dope house" at the Hercules Powder Company in nearby Pinole yesterday.

As workers rushed to fight the fire, an explosion reduced the brick building to rubble.

Twelve men were torn to bits. Bodies and parts of bodies were hurled as far as 250 feet.

The explosion threw bricks from the building 700 feet. It shook four counties. It even got a reaction on the University of California seismograph at Berkeley, 12 miles to the south. San Francisco, 20 airline miles away, was jolted.

An employee who declined to give his name said the "dope houses" were considered relatively safe from explosion. He said three had burned in the past four years without exploding.

Only two men were in the 25 by 50 foot brick building which has been used for mixing "dope"—liquid ingredient of dynamite. They presumably touched off the plant fire whistle which brought workers running. Then came the blast which "almost knocked our heads off," said workers farthest from the scene.

Those closer to the explosion didn't live.

Don't Know Cause

Eugene D. Hatfield, Hercules employment supervisor, said: "We probably will never know the cause of the blast."

The FBI is investigating the possibility of sabotage.

Plant Manager Clifford T. Butler estimated damage at $50,000.

The Hercules plant has been hit by other explosions. Last March one man was killed in an explosion in a press house. Damage was $25,000. Two others died when the nitroglycerine building blew up in June, 1948. A similar blast in 1944 also killed two men.

MIAMI (AP)—If she's as fast as her mama, the filly Nance's Lass is going to be hard to catch this season at Hialeah. Nance's Lass is the first foal from Nance's Ace who holds the world's five and one-half furlong speed record. The young filly is nominated for the Hialeah Juvenile.

Neglect to do so, and the law takes its course—with results that may not square with your wishes. It pays to get your plans for your family's future down in writing—in a properly-drawn Will. Be sure to consult your lawyer—his specialized knowledge can help eliminate legal complications.

We stand ready to carry out the provisions of your Will, as Executor, Trustee, or both. Ask our Trust Officer how our long experience can work for the benefit of your family and your estate.
